Lecture Notes Environmental Impact Assessment
Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA) originates from the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) prepared in the United States in 1969 and signed into law by the President in 1970. It was the first legislation for EIA, requiring analysis of the environmental impacts of major federal actions significantly affecting the environment.

ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT ASSESSMENT
The requirement of a State to conduct Environmental Impact Assessments in respect of activities that are likely to significantly affect the environment has been reflected in Principle 17 of the Rio Declaration on Environment and Development, Article 5 of the Legal Principle for Environmental Protection and Sustainable Development, adopted by the Experts Group on Environmental Law of the World Commission on Environment and Development, and in the 1987 Goals and Principle of Environmental ...

Lecture notes on Environmental Impact Assessment
Environmental assessment(EIA) is the term used for the assessment of the environmental consequences (positive and negative) of a plan, policy, program, or project prior to the decision to move forward with the proposed action. In this context, the term 'environmental impact assessment' (EIA) is usually used when applied to concrete projects and the term 'strategic environmental assessment' applies to policies, plans and programmes.

ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT ASSESSMENT
Environmental assessment is the process by which the consequences and effects of natural processes and human activities upon the environment are estimated, evaluated or predicted1. Assessments can include within their scope ways to minimise, mitigate or eliminate those effects, and even to compensate for their impact1,2.
